Georgia, Texas move up

Paul Myerberg

USA TODAY

For two weeks, the College Football Playoff selection committee had ranked Ohio State No. 1 on the back of its wins against Notre Dame and Penn State.

That was enough to keep Ohio State ahead of Georgia despite some closer-than-expected games in Big Ten play and a dip in offensive production. That decline was more than offset by the tangible growth of the Buckeyes defense, which ranks among the best in the Football Bowl Subdivision.

Eventually, the committee had to make the switch. There are two reasons: one, Georgia has added SEC wins to match and exceed Ohio State's resume; two, the Bulldogs are starting to look like a team capable of winning a historic third national title in a row.

Ohio State's blowout Saturday of three-win Michigan State did nothing to move the needle with the committee. But the group was definitely paying attention to Georgia's 52-17 win against Ole Miss that saw the return of star tight end Brock Bowers and saw the Bulldogs take apart a team ranked No. 9 a week ago.

So it's Georgia No. 1, Ohio State No. 2. If both teams win out, that seems likely to last to the postseason.

These two teams lead the winners and losers:

Winners

Texas and the Big 12

The No. 7 Longhorns stayed ahead of Alabama as the committee continues, rightfully so, to place value on the head-to-head win in September. There's another positive sign from Tuesday's release: Texas is one of five teams from the Big 12 in the rankings after No. 23 Oklahoma State and No. 25 Kansas hung around despite suffering their third losses. Joining them are No. 14 Oklahoma and No. 21 Kansas State. The league is getting the benefit of the doubt from the committee, and that's something to highlight given the chance Texas could be competing for the final spot in the playoff field with one or more contenders with one loss.

Missouri

Missouri rose to No. 9 after a 36-7 win against Tennessee, moving ahead of one-loss Louisville amid one of the program's most successful seasons in almost a decade. There's plenty to like about the Tigers' resume, which includes four SEC wins and impressive nonconference victories against Kansas State and Memphis. The committee is also drawn to a physical style of play that helped Missouri really battle Georgia this month and nearly pull off the upset. At this spot in the rankings and with winnable games against Florida and Arkansas, the Tigers are in wonderful position to lock down an appearance in a New Year's Six bowl game.

CFP committee Top 25 Penn State

- 1. Georgia (10-0) 2. Ohio State (10-0)
- 3. Michigan (10-0) 4. Florida State (10-0)
- 5. Washington (10-0)
- 6. Oregon (9-1) 7. Texas (9-1)
- 8. Alabama (9-1)
- 9. Missouri (8-2) 10. Louisville (9-1)
- 11. Oregon State (8-2)
- 12. Penn State (8-2) 13. Ole Miss (8-2)
- 14. Oklahoma (8-2)
- 15. LSU (7-3)
- 16. lowa (8-2) 17. Arizona (7-3) 18. Tennessee (7-3) 19. Notre Dame (7-3)
- 20. North Carolina (8-2) 21. Kansas State (7-3)
- 22. Utah (7-3) 23. Oklahoma State (7-3) 24. Tulane (9-1)

Penn State dropped just two spots to No. 12 after losing 24-15 to Michigan, staying within the cut line for a New Year's Six bowl despite losses to the only legitimate contenders on this year's schedule. But that's the reason for the slight drop: Penn State has pretty much torn through every team except the Buckeyes and Wolverines and suffered single-digit losses despite being held in check in both games. The Nittany Lions close with Rutgers and Michigan State and should get into the New Year's Six with a sweep of these last two games, depending on how things shake out at the top of the conference.

Losers

Washington

25. Kansas (7-3)

It's not that the committee doesn't like No. 5 Washington. The members just don't love the Huskies, and that may end up being a problem should they lose once this month but still capture the Pac-12 championship. The Huskies remain behind No. 4 Florida State and even No. 3 Michigan despite owning the best win in the FBS, per the committee, against No. 6 Oregon. They also have wins against No. 17 Arizona and No. 22 Utah and eight victories overall against Power Five conference teams when adding in Michigan State in nonconference action. What the committee has mentioned already is the Huskies' lack of game control, which admittedly does stand out. But Washington has the resume to be in the top four and as high as No. 3.

Liberty

With James Madison currently ineligible for the postseason playoff rankings, Liberty is the only unbeaten team in the Group of Five. Despite the unblemished record, the unranked Flames are as of today only a borderline New Year's Six bowl contender because they lack anything close to the resume needed to reach a major bowl, with only three wins against teams with a winning record (Bowling Green, New Mexico State, Jacksonville State) and zero games against Power Five competition. With games against Massachusetts, Texas-El Paso and a rematch with New Mexico State to end the year, Liberty is also unlikely to put together the victories needed to rise ahead of the American champion, whether that's No. 24 Tulane, SMU, Memphis or even Texas-San Antonio.

USWNT completes hiring of Hayes

Nancy Armour

USA TODAY

The U.S. women finally have a new coach.

U.S. Soccer announced the hiring of Emma Hayes on Tuesday, 10 days after Chelsea said its longtime manager will leave the reigning Women's Super League Champions at the end of the season. Though Hayes was quickly linked to the USWNT, where she will become the highest-paid coach in women's soccer, it took until now for U.S. Soccer, Chelsea and Hayes to work out the details of her transition from one team to the other.

Chelsea's season doesn't end until late May. The U.S. women have international windows in December, April and late May, along with the CONCACAF championship that runs Feb. 20 to March 10. More important, the Paris Olympics begin July 25 and the Americans are eager to not have a subpar showing at a third consecutive major international tournament.

U.S. Soccer said in the announcement that Hayes will have four matches with the USWNT between the end of Chelsea's season and the Olympics, with Twila Kilgore continuing as the interim manager until then. It's not clear whether Hayes will join the USWNT at any camps before Chelsea's season ends – club teams have breaks during the international windows – but she and Kilgore are expected to be in communication over roster selection and player development.

"This is a unique situation," U.S. Soccer sporting director Matt Crocker said in a statement. "But the team is in safe hands with Twila. Her stewardship will be crucial during this period as we are focused on success at the Olympics. Emma has endorsed Twila, she will be a key part of Emma's staff when she arrives and moving forward, and we are excited for what's to come with our USWNT program."

Haves is one of the top managers in the women's game, for club or country. She's been at Chelsea for 11plus years, winning six Super League titles, including the last four, and five FA Cups. Chelsea is currently atop the WSL standings.

Before taking over at Chelsea, Hayes worked in the United States. She got her start in coaching with the Long Island Lady Riders of the USL, then went to Iona College. She returned to England and was an assistant at Arsenal, also serving as the team's academy director. Hayes returned to the United States in 2008 and worked with three teams in the Women's Professional Soccer league, the precursor to the NWSL.

"This is a huge honor to be given the opportunity to coach the most incredible team in world football history," Hayes said in the U.S. Soccer statement. "The feelings and connection I have for this team and for this country run deep. I've dreamed about coaching the USA for a long time so to get this opportunity is a dream come true."

A London native, Hayes is 47.

U.S. Soccer didn't specify how much Hayes will make, saying only that she'll "become the highest-paid women's soccer coach in the world." But given England coach Sarina Wiegman is making at least $500,000, it'll be more than that.
