VIII-B ID 25-1055 Workshop: New State Legislation Affecting CEQA

6:23 p.m.

Trejo gave a brief update on Assembly Bill 130. He spoke of Statutory Exemptions, including elements such as the size of a project site, if the project is consistent with General Plan and zoning requirements, Tribal consultation, and that a Phase I Environmental Assessment will be required for all projects.

He went on to give an update on Senate Bill 131. He explained how a "Near Miss" exemption allows for a streamlined California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) review of housing projects which miss qualifying for a statutory or categorical exemption by a single condition. He went on to explain what types of projects the "Near Miss" exemption does not apply to, such as housing projects not "similar in kind", projects which do not meet two or more conditions, and any projects located on protected lands.

Siegrist concluded the presentation by giving examples of projects that are statutorily exempt, such as Day Care centers, Non-Profit Food Banks, Food Pantries, and Advanced Manufacturing facilities when located in an industrial zone, and Federally Qualified Health Centers.

Commissioners thanked Staff for the update.
