(c) Maintenance of Hotel Record. Every person who owns or operates any hotel as defined in this section is subject to this section and shall keep a register of persons who board or lodge in such establishment. Such register shall be kept for a minimum of one year after the date of its most recent entry. Every operator of a hotel as defined in this section shall comply with the following requirements for maintaining the hotel record. The record is a written documentation of information about a guest that may be maintained electronically, in a book, or on cards.

(1) The records shall be kept on the premises in the guest reception or guest check-in area or in an office adjacent to that area.

Allowing a guest to register without verifying the guest's identification as required by this subsection is unlawful and a violation of this section.

(2) The number and expiration date of the identification document obtained under subsection (d)(1) shall be recorded and maintained by the operator in the record for at least one year. Nothing in this section prevents the operator from maintaining the record for longer than one year in order to comply with any other provision of law, including the obligation to maintain and produce records for the purpose of paying a transient occupancy tax.

(e) Training of employees. The owner or proprietor of a hotel business shall take all reasonable steps, including but not limited to, providing training regarding this section to ensure the person who checks a person into the hotel complies with the provisions of this section.
