ID 1. Presentation by Faith in the Valley
20-001575 2. Discussion and actions pertaining to the Violence Youth Summit and rising community violence

Program Manager Espinoza provided background information. Mayor-elect Jerry Dyer, public officials, and community leaders held a summit with Fresno youth to discuss rising violence in the City during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Organizer Marcell Woodruff from the organization Faith in the Valley presented. Organizer Woodruff reviewed the summit. Seven groups discussed and shared recommendations regarding community needs and support services to fulfill those needs. They discussed the correlations between the pandemic and boredom, which results in violence between people, including friends. Three primary needs were identified: supportive services, mentoring, and safe havens.

Chair Guzman asked for public comment. Upon call, Paloma and Heru Af provided comments.

Paloma related her personal experience as an undocumented immigrant. She requested supportive services for undocumented people, including: jobs with equal wages, child support services, transportation assistance and counselors on school campuses instead of police officers.

Heru Af requested mentors for young men in order to provide youth with father-figures and reduce gang affiliations.

Organizer Woodruff shared the story of a youth who recently lost a friend to gun violence. Through Organizer Woodruff, the youth requested safe havens with supportive services programming.

In response to questions from Commissioner Gamble regarding the commission's role, Organizer Woodruff stated the City Council had increased the PARCS Department's budget by $10 million and community-based organizations were working on proposals to request youth services and violence reduction funding in the amount of approximately $300,000. The Fresno Youth Commission can support that effort. Program Manager Espinoza clarified that federal funding dollars could not be used to support services for undocumented people, but other funding sources could be identified and used for such purposes.

1st Vice Chair Martinez, 2nd Vice Chair Galvan and Commissioner Vergara volunteered to work with Faith in the Valley to research and draft proposals to submit to City Council. There was no opposition.

No further action was taken on this item.
