Trump supporters to rally in Washington

Protest comes just before Electoral College meets

N’dea Yancey-Bragg
USA TODAY

As many as 5,000 of President Donald Trump’s supporters are expected to descend on the nation’s capital Saturday – just days before Electoral College votes are cast – to protest alleged voter fraud in the Nov. 3 presidential election, an unfounded claim also pushed by Trump.

Women for America First, a group of conservative women that organized last month’s “Stop the Steal” rally in Washington, filed for another protest permit from the National Park Service after their first event, which drew tens of thousands of people.

Electors from all 50 states and Washington, D.C., meet in their respective state capitals Monday to formally cast votes for president based on the popular votes in each state. President-elect Joe Biden won 306 electoral votes and Trump stands at 232; a presidential candidate needs 270 of these votes to win.

Twenty-six states and the District of Columbia legally mandate electors vote in accordance with the popular vote, but “faithless” electors have voted for someone other than their candidate. None have ever affected the outcome of the election.

The demonstration is a way for Trump supporters to express their disillusionment and anger over the election, said Amy Kremer, chair for Women for America First, who is traveling to the nation’s capital as part of a two-week, cross-country bus tour.

“We want him to continue to stay strong and fight to expose this voter fraud and demand transparency and election integrity,” she said. “The second propose is really to support each other.”

The Proud Boys at Million MAGA March last month. The group plans to march this weekend. JACK GRUBER/USA TODAY

Attorney General William Barr said last week the Justice Department has not found evidence of widespread voter fraud that would change the outcome of the vote. A national coalition of election security officials said last month there was no evidence any voting system was compromised and described the election as “the most secure in American history.”

“There’s no evidence to support the contention or the allegation that there’s been widespread voter fraud in the 2020 presidential election,” said David Levine, elections integrity fellow at the nonpartisan Alliance for Securing Democracy. He noted that the majority of lawsuits the Trump team has filed in states have failed.

“What I am more concerned about is that these kinds of events contribute to a broader mis- or disinformation campaign that undermines voter confidence in elections and creates fissures in our democracy,” he said.

Levine added that more work needs to be done to boost voter confidence in election integrity and to protect election officials who may be targeted if they are perceived as contributing to a candidate’s loss.

The goal of the rally appears to be an attempt to change some of the electors’ minds and cause “disruption and chaos,” according to Angelo Carusone, president of the left-leaning media watchdog group Media Matters for America. He said the rally turnout also could provide insight into what to expect from right-wing organizers under the Biden administration.

“The external goal and ostensibly sort of purpose of this is to have a show of force in some meaningful way right when the electors from the Electoral College come to D.C. to cast their votes,” he said. “The internal goal is to just keep the keep engagement going and to keep their membership together.”

The permit application estimates upward of 5,000 people will gather on Dec. 11 and 12 in support of Trump, a considerably smaller figure than the tens of thousands who turned out in November.

Turnout could be much lower than the previous event in part because it was not as heavily advertised initially in right-wing circles, said Jared Holt, a visiting fellow at the Atlantic Council’s Digital Forensics Research Lab who focuses on domestic extremism.

“We are seeing this Stop the Steal movement is already starting to dwindle at least in its digital footprint and that appears to be translating to rallies,” he said.

The pro-Trump gathering likely will be held at Freedom Plaza, according to the National Park Service. A permit is expected to be issued this week that will include details for the event and the number of participants.

Several groups including anti-Trump organization Refuse Fascism and anti-fascist group All Out DC have already announced they will again hold counterprotests. Refuse Fascism is planning to rally in Black Lives Matter plaza.

“We are rallying to stand up against the regime in power and the fascist mobilization,” she said.

Organizers of the pro-Trump rally acknowledged the potential for counterprotests on their permit application, specifically mentioning Black Lives Matter and Antifa.

“Obviously we’ve seen that anyone anti trump will attack us,” Cindy Chafian of Women for America First wrote in the application. “We will make sure to have a plan in place to ensure the safety of attendees.”

At the mid-November rally, skirmishes between protesters and counterprotesters broke out across the city. At least 20 people were arrested on a variety of charges, including assault and weapons possession, The Associated Press reported. One stabbing was reported, two police officers were injured and several firearms were also recovered by police.

Kristen Metzger, a spokesperson for the D.C. police, confirmed police will be present at the demonstration and a traffic advisory with road closures will be released ahead of the event.

Carusone said several chapters of the Proud Boys, a far-right extremist group known for inciting violence, are not only planning to attend as they have before but said counterprotesters need to be aware that Proud Boys seek to antagonize counter demonstrators to create a “pretext for self-defense.”

“Likelihood for violence is actually more acute than it was last time largely because of who’s really organizing it,” Carusone said.

POLITICS NEWS BRIEFING

Stimulus talks drag on; Biden introduces Pentagon pick

The stalemate in stimulus negotiations continued Wednesday as Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., attacked top Democrats’ rejection of the latest White House offer, while Democrats staked their hopes on a bipartisan group of nine senators negotiating a $908 billion proposal.

On Tuesday, McConnell had offered to drop one of Republicans’ largest priorities in negotiations – liability protections for businesses – if Democrats dropped one of their priorities – aid for state and local governments.

Those sticking points could be resolved in another relief bill at the beginning of next year, he said.

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., rejected McConnell’s approach, urging him to work with the bipartisan group instead and accusing him of “obstruction.”

Adding to the scramble to get a bill done before Congress leaves for Christmas, the White House and Treasury Secretary Steve Mnuchin made their own $916 billion proposal Tuesday evening, an approach Democrats mostly rejected because of the small amount it provided for unemployment funds.

“In a bizarre and schizophrenic press release, the speaker and the leader said the administration was obstructing negotiations by negotiating,” McConnell said.

“Two more brush-offs in about two hours. More deflection, more delay, and more suffering for innocent Americans.”

Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer, D-N.Y., told reporters Wednesday, “Cutting unemployment to the extent he has ... it’s not going to get much support among any Democrats.” Schumer said bipartisan negotiations were the “way to go.”

Sen. Angus King, I-Maine, working on the compromise proposal, told reporters the group was still “trying to finalize the language.”

Biden introduces Defense pick

In officially introducing Lloyd Austin as his nominee to become secretary of the Defense Department, President-elect Joe Biden sought Wednesday to tamp down criticism of picking a retired, four-star Army general as the civilian leader of the armed forces.

“He is the right person for this job, at the right moment leading the Department of Defense at this moment in our nation’s history,” Biden said.

“Through sheer determination and and extraordinary skill, He’s been breaking down barriers and blazing a trail forward in this nation for more than 40 years.”

Biden said Austin led the reduction in troops from Iraq, which represented the biggest logistical challenge to the department in 60 years. One night while meeting at the ambassador’s house in Baghdad, Biden said, insurgents launched a rocket attack.

“Of course, for Gen. Austin, it was just another day at the office,” Biden said. “He’s cool under fire, inspiring the same in all those around him.”

If confirmed, Austin would be the first African American to head the Pentagon. People of color represent about 30% of military personnel, which Biden said should be better reflected in leadership.

“It’s long past the time that the department’s leadership reflects that diversity,” Biden said.

Austin thanked Biden for the honor of building upon the history of African Americans in the military, from Buffalo soldiers to the Tuskegee Airmen to Colin Powell, a former general and secretary of state. “Many people have paved the way for me,” Austin said.

Before Austin can be confirmed, Congress must grant a waiver from a law that requires active-duty military personnel to wait at least seven years before they can become defense secretary.

HUD, Agriculture choices named

Biden and Vice President-elect Kamala Harris will choose Rep. Marcia Fudge as their nominee for secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and Tom Vilsack for secretary of Agriculture.

Fudge is an Ohio Democrat representing the Cleveland area. She would be the second Black woman to lead HUD, which focuses on federal policy surrounding housing. Vilsack would return to the position he held for eight years during the Obama administration. He also served two terms as Iowa’s governor.

High court spurns election suit

The Supreme Court refused Tuesday to stop Pennsylvania from finalizing Biden’s victory in the state despite allegations from allies of President Donald Trump that the expansion of mail-in voting was illegal.

The action by the high court, which includes three justices named by Trump, came as states across the country are looking in the results that will lead to next week’s Electoral College vote. It represented the latest in a string of stinging judicial opinions that have left the president defeated politically and legally.

By their one-sentence denial, the justices left intact a ruling by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which said the challenge to a state law passed in 2019 came far too late. New Associate Justice Amy Coney Barrett appeared to have participated in the case; no dissents or recusals were noted.
