Deion tells the truth in 1st meeting

Dan Wolken
Columnist
USA TODAY

Deion Sanders stood in front of his Colorado football team for the first time on Sunday and delivered a 7-minute sermon in a way that only he can, a speech that referenced Louis Vuitton luggage, his prominence on ESPN and a theme he repeated over and over again: “I’m comin’.”

Because it’s Coach Prime, and because it was videotaped and tweeted out for all the world to see, it has drawn a spectrum of praise and criticism for how directly he told a room full of young men that many of them would not be there next year.

“I’m coming to restore, to replace and re-energize,” Sanders said in his speech. “Some of y’all are salvageable. I’m not going to lie, everybody that sit their butt in a seat ain’t gonna have a seat when we get back. But I’m coming. I started and we gonna go dominate and we’re going to work.”

The messenger might have been atypical, but the message isn’t much different from what most new coaches deliver when they take over 1-11 teams, much less at a program that has posted 15 losing records in the past 17 seasons.

Prime wasn’t hired for a slow and steady rebuild; he wants to win now. Welcome to college football in 2022.

For all the unique aspects Sanders brings to the job, his riff on players entering the transfer portal if they weren’t good enough to make the cut was perhaps the most he’s ever sounded like every other college football coach.

Whatever coaching or chemistry issues caused Colorado to win just one game this season, Sanders knows why he was hired: To bring in a lot of talent to a program that didn’t have much of it. There’s nothing wrong with the players knowing it, too.

Is it one of the more unsavory aspects of college sports? Perhaps.

Does it comport with the idealized academic mission college presidents and administrators like to brag about when they tout the virtues of amateur athletics? Absolutely not.

But is it the reality of trying to turn around a perennial loser? You bet.

“We’ve got a few positions already taken care of because I’m bringing my luggage with me and it’s Louis (Vuitton),” Sanders told the players. “I’m coming. It ain’t gonna be no more of the mess that these wonderful fans, the student body and some of your parents have put up with for probably two decades now. I’m coming. And when I get here, it’s going to change. So I want you all to get ready. Go ahead and jump in that portal and do whatever you’re going to do, because the more of you jump in, the more room you make.”

Not only was it a message to the players currently at Colorado, it was an invitation to the hundreds of players all over the country who entered the transfer portal Monday.

The Buffaloes are now open for business, and aside from a few positions where he’s already got big-time players coming with him from Jackson State, like his son Shedeur Sanders and cornerback Travis Hunter (i.e., the Louis Vuitton luggage), dozens of roster spots are up for grabs. If there’s not room, Colorado will make room – if you’re a difference-maker.

It may be jarring for people to hear a coach so blatantly tell a group of college athletes that they should probably start looking at their options, but that’s how college sports has worked for a long, long time. For decades, new coaches have come into losing situations and tried to determine who can play and who can’t, who are the malcontents and who are good teammates, who can help you win and who should never have been there in the first place.

That’s what coaches mean when they talk about “changing the culture.” The difference now is that can happen almost overnight.

Buffaloes better brace themselves

Used to be that turning over a roster of players took years of recruiting and slowly building up a talent base that would start to bear fruit by the time they were juniors and seniors. Bringing in transfers could help, but coaches couldn’t rely on them too heavily because they had to sit out for a year under the old NCAA rules. And because of certain standards like the Academic Progress Rate, you could risk future scholarship losses or even postseason bans if you pushed too many players out the door.

But since the COVID-19 pandemic, pretty much everything has changed in college sports. Players can jump from one school to another without much friction. The potential for players to earn money through name, image and likeness deals means the non-traditional schools at least have a chance to compete for talent with the blue bloods. And because the transfer portal works both ways, coaches won’t be criticized nearly as much for encouraging players to find another home.

Whether you like this new world or not, that’s the game these days. And Coach Prime is more than equipped to play it.

Though it would be far too ambitious to predict that Colorado will go from laughingstock to contender in just one year, odds are that Sanders will be able to do enough work on the roster to at least make the Buffaloes competitive right away. And yes, part of that will be telling some players who simply aren’t Pac-12 level athletes that they’d be better off at a lower level.

“I love everything about this institution – the academic prevalence, no crime, beautiful city, beautiful state,” Sanders told the team. “We’ve never had nothing (like this facility) to work out in. Our (Jackson State) kids would go absolute crazy to be in the situation you are in. But you don’t respect it. I’m coming. You don’t want it. I’m coming. Some of y’all don’t even think you deserve it. I’m coming. And usually when God sends me to a place, he sends me to be a conduit of change.”

Indeed, he’s coming. And Colorado is in for a big, big change. The way he’ll do it may be uncomfortable for some to hear, but Sanders will rarely be more honest and direct than he was in that meeting.

A whole lot of players who wore Colorado uniforms last season will be elsewhere next fall; their scholarships filled by people who are bigger and faster and more talented. But that doesn’t make Sanders a bad guy. It just makes him a college football coach in 2022.

First Colorado team meeting a tense reality show

Brent Schrottenboer
USA TODAY

BOULDER, Colo. – New Colorado head football coach Deion Sanders met his new players for the first time Sunday and told them exactly what he would do to them.

It wasn’t nice. He said that some of them would be replaced. He told them they should get ready to find new teams and take the transfer portal out of town.

He also said he would try to make them quit.

And he did it all on camera, with a video of it posted on YouTube later via his son Deion Jr.

“Those of you that we don’t run off, we’re going to try to make you quit,” Sanders told his new team. “That’s what our season is going to look like. I want ones that don’t want to quit, that want to be here, who want to work, who want to win. ... I don’t want to get in the game and then find out I’ve got Jane, when all offseason I had Tarzan.”

Colorado, a former national powerhouse, has had only two winning seasons since 2005 and finished 1-11 in 2022. But here is Sanders, the newly hired celebrity coach, vowing to overhaul the program to change that – all while turning it into a reality TV show of sorts to be shared online.

At one point in the team meeting Sunday, Sanders laid down team rules – no earrings, hats or hoodies in meetings. At another point, he told the Buffaloes that there “ain’t gonna be no more of the mess that these wonderful (Colorado) fans, the student body and some of your parents have put up with for probably two decades now.”

“I’m coming,” Sanders told them. “And when I get here, it’s gonna be change. So I want you all to get ready to go ahead and jump in that (transfer) portal and do what whatever you’re gonna get.”

It’s a formula he’s revealed after just one day on the job – combining cameras, social media and an old-school coaching style for the new name-image-and-likeness era of college football (NIL).

After all, his nickname isn’t “Prime Time” for nothing. Under the production of his son, cameras follow around Sanders and others, capturing meetings and moments to be posted and spread on social media, for better or worse.

The goal is simple – to increase exposure for the program, attract top recruits and boost the fame of his players, helping them increase opportunities to earn money from their NILs, which was allowed for the first time last year in the NCAA.

“We know how to do social media,” Sanders told his team.

Sanders then turned to his son with the camera and asked him the best way to increase their followings.

“Just post,” said his son, also known as Bucky. “You’ve just got to post. ... You’ve got all eyes on you right now. ... Everybody want to know what y’all about to do, who y’all are, what everything is.”

As the man with the camera and social media skills, Bucky Sanders also told the team what his job would be in the meantime.

“I’m going to make y’all the most famous people walking this planet,” he said. “But you’ve got to win.”

Sanders the coach explained it in his introductory news conference Sunday at Colorado.

“I want you to get ready to start seeing cameras because we film documentaries,” he said.

It’s a carryover from his tenure at Jackson State in Mississippi, where his team went 12-0 this season and will be part of a docuseries on Sanders that will premier later this month on Amazon Prime. Some of the show will show his arrival at Colorado.

“The kids, they want exposure,” Sanders said. “They want to be on television. They want the lights and the action, but they got to understand, the same thing that caused you to shine will show your blemishes as well. So we’re going to give them that. We’re going to give them the followers. We’re going to give them the attention. We’re going to give them the support, and we need each and every one of you, because the caliber of players that we’re getting ready to bring to you, they gonna want something. But guess what, I’m going to want something back. I’m not crazy about the NILs, but I understand the NILs. ... I’d rather our kids be focused on the NFL, and not just the NIL.”

Sanders also mentioned in the team meeting that Bucky Sanders soon would get help for his production efforts to make it even bigger. “He’s been a one-man machine,” Sanders said of his son.

The show got a little tense Sunday. Sanders kept telling the room full of players that “I’m coming,” meaning he was coming in to turn the program around.

“There is not going to be any more mediocrity, period,” he told them.

“I’m coming.”

He said he was going to coach his Jackson State team in its final game Dec. 17 – at the Celebration Bowl in Atlanta. Then he was coming back with new players to replace some of them. He said his son, quarterback Shedeur, is coming to Colorado from Jackson State.

“Yep, about 10 more of them coming,” Sanders told the holdover players. “And they dogs. And they gonna hunt. And they gonna eat.”

He was blunt.

“We have a few positions already taken care of because I’m bringing my luggage with me, and it’s Louis (Vuitton, the luxury brand),” Sanders said.

The players looked at him in silence. He even suggested they were spoiled, telling them that Boulder was a beautiful city with a beautiful stadium and no crime. He compared it to Jackson State, where his players had less.

“We’ve never had nothing of sort to work out in and to train in,” he said to the Colorado players. “Our kids would go absolute crazy to be in the situation that you in, but you don’t respect it. I’m coming. You don’t want it. I’m coming. Some of y’all don’t even think you deserve it. I’m coming. And usually when God sent me to a place, he sent me to a place to be a conduit of change. I’m coming.”

Colorado’s administration, fans and alumni are glad he is.

“We needed somebody like him at this program that could re-energize not only our student-athletes, but our base and our community and our state,” Rick George, Colorado’s athletic director, said Sunday. “I think he can do all of that.”
